8. a. Discussion and possible board action on a presentation by DWP Groundwater Replenishment Project in Arleta. DWP representatives attending: John Hinds and Rosalba Santana

Before John Hinds could make his presentation Mark Lopez and Luis E Sencion step out of the meeting at 7:08 citing a conflict of interest 90% of water supply in Los Angeles comes from outside Los Angeles. The DWP is working on a proposed plan to build an Advanced Water Purification Facility (AWPF) at the Tillman Water Reclamation Plant. This project is currently in its beginning stages and is projected to last until 2022. From the Tillman facility water would go into the Pacoima and Hansen Dam spreading grounds. The project is intended to reduce dependence on imported water supplies and increase groundwater supply. The department is currently conducting an environmental analysis.

Questions

Stakeholder Miriam Fogler expressed concern about flooding in the spreading grounds and the threat of mosquitoes. John Hines said LA County Flood Control is in charge of handling potential flooding issues.

Board Member Jack Lindblad asked about the extraction wells which have toxic plumes.

John Hines addressed that by saying as long as more stormwater and recycled water goes into the basin eventually the contaminant levels will go down.

Nick Pierson asked how much would the water rates go up. John Hines said financing the project over a longer period of time will help decrease the overall impact on rates. They will look into state, local, and federal funding for help.

Stakeholder Terry Hendricks expressed concern with the pipeline going through Canterbury St because it is a major street. Asked if it was possible the pipeline go along the Pacoima wash instead of having to dig up a street. John Hines said he was not sure if that could be a possibility, but the department can look into it.

Public Comments:

Speaker: Miriam Fogler-Urged everyone to get Van Nuys Video Conferencing to open so residents can express concerns to Council Members. It costs money to keep it open, but it is important to help the millions of citizens who are being affected by the proposed DWP project.

Speaker: Donna Pearman - Also concerned about Van Nuys Video Conferencing. She doesn't like going to downtown LA to speak with council members.
